THE MINDFUL TOURIST

THE TOURIST EXPERIENCE

Series editor: Richard Sharpley

The Tourist Experience series addresses a notable gap in the literature on Tourism Studies by foregrounding the tourist experience in a cohesive and thematically structured manner.

Taking a novel approach by presenting both short form publications and longer form monographs exploring issues in the tourist experience, the series will seek to build a comprehensive set of texts that collectively contribute to critical discourse and understanding of the contemporary tourist experience. Short form publications will review specific types of tourist by focussing primarily on the influences and nature and significance of their experiences within a socio-cultural framework while longer titles will embrace contemporary empirical and conceptual perspectives and debates as a means of understanding experiences.

Recent volumes:

The Adventure Tourist: Being, Knowing, Becoming

Dr Jelena Farkić and Dr Maria Gebbels

The Backpacker Tourist: A contemporary perspective

Márcio Domingos Alves Ribeiro Martins and Rui Augusto da Costa

Forthcoming Volumes:

The Responsible Tourist: Conceptualizations, expectations and dilemmas

Dirk Reiser and Volker Rundshagen

The Sport Tourist

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Uglješa Stankov is a Full Professor at the Department of Geography, Tourism and Hotel Management, Faculty of Sciences, University of Novi Sad. His main research areas are the strategic role of information technology in tourism and mindful tourist experiences. He actively cooperates with researchers and professional organisations from around the world and participates in several international projects. He has published more than 160 scientific papers and four books.

Ulrike Gretzel is a Senior Fellow at the Center of Public Relations, University of Southern California and serves as Director of Research at Netnografica. She received her Ph.D. in Communications from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Her research focusses on the impact of technology on human experiences and the structure of technology-mediated communication. She studies social media marketing, influencer marketing and the emerging reputation economy, as well as smart tourism development, technology adoption in tourism organisations, tourism in technological dead zones, and the quest for digital detox experiences.

Viachaslau Filimonau is a Member of Academic Staff in the School of Hospitality and Tourism Management, University of Surrey, Guildford, the UK, and Hotelschool the Hague, the Netherlands. He has a multidisciplinary academic background which combines social sciences and natural sciences disciplines. In broad terms, his research interests revolve around the topic of (more) sustainable tourism and hospitality operations. In particular, this includes work on the social element of sustainability, such as mindfulness and ‘green’ human resources management, and the environmental element of sustainability, such as solid waste and carbon footprint management.
