INDEX

Note: Page numbers followed by "n" indicate end notes.

Ability, 201–202
Actionable variables, 100 Allocating spend across buying process stage, 208–209
  across media channels and tactics, 210–211
  across segments, 209–210
Amazon's BCVP to drive organic growth, 17
Asymptomatic disease (ASD), 23, 30–32, 34–35, 39
  buying process, 25–27
  objective test for, 44
Awareness-consideration-purchase-trial- (repeat) model, 40

Behavior change
  drivers and barriers to, 32–34, 75–78, 120–125, 170–175
  high-yield, 64–69
  to–from, 198
Behavior change value proposition (BCVP), 11, 17, 34–35, 78–80, 125–127, 175–180, 184, 188–193, 212 activating value of target behavior, 200–203
  for Caesar Financial, 196
  changing customer behavior, 200
  conventional wisdom, 185–188
  defining targets, 197
  explanation, 193
  finding leverage in different stages of buying process, 187
  mapping differentiation, 191
  moving from attitude to action, 187–188 template, 193–197
  to–from behavior changes, 198
  value proposition for buying process behavior (change), 198–200
Behavioral objectives, 13, 56–57
  picking and defining, 55–59
  testing correlation of customer characteristics and, 71 upstream vs. downstream, 59–61
Beliefs and attitudes, preexisting, 139, 145–149
Bias for drivers, 132–133
Brazil, 231, 234
Burke, James (Johnson & Johnson), 3
Business-to-business (B2B), 229
  buying process, 240–242
  industries, 6
  markets, 18–19, 56, 66, 144, 150, 159, 230, 239–240, 248, 273*n*32
  waterfalls, 54
Business-to-consumer (B2C), 159, 229, 274*n*39
  companies, 259
  market, 18–19, 131
Buyer behavior barriers, 137
  ignoring negative aspects, 133
Buying path
  for replenishing everyday wine inventory, 49
  for vintage/investment wines, 48
Buying process, 24–30, 47, 64–69, 115–118, 162–167
  B2B, 240–242
  excerpt from color cosmetics, 116
  finding leverage in different stages of, 187 limits of, 42
  quantified wine, 51
  triggering events and objectives in wealth management, 164
  for wine, 46

Caesar Financial, 19, 161–162, 205, 256
  BCVP for, 196
  behavior change value proposition, 175–180
  buying process and high-yield behavior change, 162–167
  disproportionate investment, 180–181
  drivers and barriers to behavior change, 170–175
  redesigned campaign, 184
  rethinking segmentation, 167–170
Changing behaviors, 217
China, 231
Cisco, 252
Commercial investment across areas, 260–261
  to focused spend, 267
Communications, 148
Concentration of customers, 244–245
Consumer insight, 148
  research to market-driven insights, 266–267
Context, 125–126, 139, 150–151
Conventional approach, 7
  to segmentation, 93
Conventional industry wisdom, 256–257
Conventional segmentation, 87–88
Conventional wisdom, 40–42, 84–88, 130–131, 185–188, 207–208
  to system-wide replacement, 263–264
Customer behavior
  changing, 200
  data, 122
  and outcomes, 141
Customer behavior framework (CBF), 120–121, 130, 135–136, 139–140, 152–154, 173, 199
Customer–purchase process, 41
Customers, 88, 131, 158, 165–166
  customer experience, redesigned, 178–179
  desired experience, 142–145
  in high-propensity segments, 91
  identification, 242–244
  narrative, 123, 136, 154–156, 199
  scarcity and concentration of, 244–245
Demographic profile, 232
Demographic/geographic segmentations, 85
Desired experience, 139, 142–145
Digital marketing, 211
Disney World, 185
Disproportionate investment, 11–18, 36–37, 80–81, 127–128, 180–181, 205–207 allocating spend across buying process stages, 208–209 allocating spend across media channels and tactics, 210–211 allocating spend across segments, 209–210
  conventional wisdom, 207–208
  disproportionately focused segment-specific campaigns, 222–224
  estimating funding and timing, 220–222
  explanation, 213–214
  overall plan, 214–216
  prioritizing and group segments into implementation waves, 218–220
  segment characterization, 216–218
  segment-specific marketing tactics to activate high-yield behaviors, 223
  sequence segments and spend disproportionately, 211–213
  sequencing waves for successive marketing campaigns, 219–220
Disproportionately focused segment-specific campaigns, 222–224
Document behaviors and outcomes, 140–142
Downstream behavioral objectives, 59–61
Drivers and barriers to behavior change, 32–34, 75–78, 120–125, 134–138, 170–175
  to consulting with or selecting, 77 economic, 157–158
  extracting, 157–159

E2DBW, 131, 133–133
Economic barriers, 137
Economic drivers and barriers, 157–158
Economy structure, 232
Ecuador, 231
Ellison, Larry (Oracle), 3

Energy services
  mapping buying process waterfall for, 67
  segmentation frame for, 74
  thirteen-step process to purchase, 65
EnServ, 19, 63–64, 154, 159, 198–199, 222, 224, 239, 260, 265
  BCVP, 78–80
  buying process and high-yield behavior change, 64–69
  disproportionate investment, 80–81
  drivers and barriers to behavior change, 75–78
  drivers and barriers to consulting with or selecting, 77
  R&D organization at, 258
  rethinking segmentation, 69–75
Environment axis, 105
EuroMonitor, 259

Facebook, 114
Firmographic segmentation, 85
Food and Drug Administration (FDA), 249
Full value system, 250–251
Function-specific segmentations, 97
Funding and timing estimation, 220–222

Germany, 231
Gerstner, Lou (IBM), 3
Goldman Sachs, 162
Gomez, Susan, 63, 83
Government-shaped buying processes, 251

Heating, ventilation, and air conditioning (HVAC), 63
  business, 206
  system, 257
Helena Styx Cosmetics, 113–114
Heterogeneity across segments, 85
High-innovation (high-tech) markets, 252–254
High-yield behavior, 7–8, 10–12, 15–18, 43–44, 55–56, 58–59, 134, 217 change, 24–30, 64–69, 115–118, 162–167 segment-specific marketing tactics to activating, 223
High-yield leverage points, 208
Highest collective correlation, 103
Highly regulated competitive markets, 248–249
Homogeneity within segments, 85

IBM, 5
Implementation waves, prioritizing and group segments into, 218–220
India, 231, 234
Indonesia, 231
Information sources, 138
Input behaviors, 40
Instagram, 114
Institutional arrangements, 159
Institutional barriers, 138
Intrinsic competitive challenge, 6

Job rotation, 261–262
Job rotation to longer-term perspective, 267–268
JPMorgan, 162

Less developed economy markets, 230–233
  separate economies within, 233–238
Leverage point, 116, 118
Living energy management roadmap, 80
Logistics/transportation infrastructure, 232

Magnitude, 216
Mapping buying process waterfall, 9–10, 12, 39–40, 42–43
  conventional wisdom, 40–42
  for energy services, 67
  explanation, 44–52
  high-yield behavior, 43–44
  picking and defining behavioral objective, 55–59
  standard purchase funnel analysis, 52–55
  upstream vs. downstream behavioral objectives, 59–61
Mapping differentiation, 191
  of PVP and BCVP, 191
Market segmentation map, 209
Marketers, 208
Marketing management, 97
McDonald's, 5
Media availability, 232
MOA Model, 193, 201–203

Morocco, 231
Motivation, 201–202
Multiple, siloed views to organization-wide views, 265

Needs-based segmentations, 86
Nestle, 259
Netflix, 5
New product development (NPD), 241
Nordisk, Novo (Lars Rebien Sørensen), 4

Occasion-based marketing, 144
Opportunity, 201–202
Organic growth
  BCVP, 17
  CEO of the Year and, 4–6
  principles and choices, 13
  reigniting for sparkle brand, 125
Organic Growth Challenge, 5
Organic Growth Playbook, The, 7–9
  BCVP, 11, 17
  invest disproportionately, 11–18
  mapping buying process waterfall, 9–10, 12
  path forward, 18–21
  propensity-based segmentation, 10–11
  unearthing critical drivers and barriers of target behavior, 11
Organizational context, 151
Organizational roadblocks, 255–256 conflicting views and maps, 257–258
  conventional industry wisdom, 256–257
  from conventional wisdom to system-wide replacement, 263–264 growth roadblocks and playbook solutions, 264
  from job rotation to longer-term perspective, 267–268
  from multiple, siloed views to organization-wide views, 265
  Playbook Approach, 262
  promotion cycles and job rotation, 261–262
  from spread of commercial investment to focused spend, 267 spreading commercial investment across areas, 260–261
  underfunding consumer research, 259–260
  from underfunding consumer research to market-driven insights, 266–267 Output behaviors, 39

Pakistan, 231, 234
Parker, Mark (Fortune magazine), 4
Path dependent process, 41
Patient segmentation, 31
Peanut butter marketing, 41
Peru, 231, 234
Pharma markets, 237
Physical barriers, 137
Physical context, 151
Playbook Approach, 229–230, 255, 262
  B2B buying process, 240–242
  B2B markets, 248
  complex, government-shaped buying processes, 251 customer identification, 242–244
  full value system, 250–251
  high-innovation (high-tech) markets, 252–254
  highly regulated competitive markets, 248–249
  less developed economy markets, 230–233
  position in value system, 245–248
  scarcity and concentration of customers, 244–245
  to segmentation, 93
  separate economies within less developed markets, 233–238
  traditional B2B markets, 239–240
Point-of-entry customers, 114, 122–124
Presentation, 125–126
Primary care physician (PCP), 29, 57
Procter & Gamble, 259
Product, 125–126
  centricity, 131–132
Product value propositions (PVPs), 78, 183, 186, 188
  mapping differentiation of, 191 Promotion, 168
  cycles, 261–262
Propensity, 217
  heat map, 102–108

Propensity-based segmentation, 10–11, 83–84, 88–93, 108–110
  constructing segmentation frame and propensity heat map, 102–108 conventional vs. playbook approach to segmentation, 93
  conventional wisdom, 84–88
  explanation, 93–99
  identifying actionable and meaningful segmentation variables, 99–102 maps, 91, 94
  of new wealth management clients, 169 process, 95
  for women purchasing color cosmetics, 119
Psychographic segmentations, 86
Purchase behaviors, 45
Purchase-based behavior segmentation, 86
PVP-driven model, 186

Qualitative analysis, 53
Quantification, 54

Ratan Tata (Tata Group), 3
Requests for proposals (RFP), 64, 67–68, 142, 222, 242
Research and development (R&D), 240, 253, 255, 258
Rethinking segmentation, 167–170
Rethinking segmentation, 30–32, 69–75, 118–119
Revenue growth, 3

Scarcity of customers, 244–245
Schmidt, Eric (Alphabet), 3
Schwab, Charles, 162
Segment characterization, 216–218
Segment-by-segment, 206
Segment-specific marketing tactics to activate high-yield behaviors, 223
Segmentation, 84
  dueling, 97
  variables, 99–102
Segmentation frame, 70, 72, 93–94, 102–108
  for energy services, 74
Self-termination, 65–6
Sequence segments and spend disproportionately, 211–213
Sequencing waves, 220
  for successive marketing campaigns, 219–220
Shin, Eugene, 161, 205
Situation axis, 105
Situation-based consumption, 153
Situational variables, 73
Snapchat, 261
Social context, 151, 159
Social experience, 121
South Africa, 231, 234
Sparkle cosmetics, 19, 113–115, 129–130, 144, 198, 202, 224
  behavior change value proposition, 125–127
  buying process and high-yield behavior change, 115–118
  customer behavior data, 122
  customer behavior framework, 121
  customer narrative, 123
  disproportionate investment, 127–128
  drivers and barriers to behavior change, 120–125
  excerpt from color cosmetics buying process, 116
  propensity-based segmentation for women purchasing color cosmetics, 119 reigniting organic growth, 125
  rethinking segmentation, 118–119
Stakeholder influence, 66
Standard purchase funnel analysis, 52–55

Target behavior, activating value of, 200–203
Terrafix, 1–3, 23–24, 28–30, 39, 184, 198, 239, 251, 262
  behavioral objective, 92
  buying process, 44
  choices, 37
Terrafix Integrated Marketing Choices, 19
Texas Instruments, 252
Theory of business, 269
Three-phase process, 135
Turkey, 231
Twitter, 261
Type/mix of channels, 232

Uber, 188, 191
Underfunding consumer research, 259–260
Unearthing critical drivers and barriers of target behaviors, 11, 129–130
  bias for drivers, 132–133
  CBF, 139–140, 152–154
  conventional wisdom, 130–131
  customer's desired experience, 142–145
  document behaviors and outcomes, 140–142
  document preexisting beliefs and attitudes, 145–149 drivers and barriers of behavior change, 134–138
  easy to do business, 133–134
  explanation, 138–139
  extracting drivers and barriers, 157–159
  product centricity, 131–132
  social and physical context, 149–152 writing customer narrative, 154–156
Unilever, 259
Upstream behavioral objectives, 59–61

Value proposition for buying process behavior (change), 198–200
Value system, position in, 245–248
Variability, actionable and meaningful, proprietary and alignment (VAMPA), 95–96
Venezuela, 231
Viagra, 187

Welch, Jack (GE), 3
Wilcox, Sam, 1, 18, 23, 26, 39

YouTube, 114