

INDEX

- Abolition of foreign organization
 registration policy (1999), 103
- Accreditation process, 103
- Acculturation process, 22
- Anti-racism, 136
- Asian Debt Crisis (1997), 101–102
- Asian Games (1986), 101
- Authentic collaboration process, 120
- Author as co-participant, 106, 119–120
- Autobiographical analysis, 32–33
- Autobiographical approach, 106
- Autobiographical narratives, 61–62
 as data, 60
 study of teaching, 76
- Bilingual education, 38
- Bilingual Education Principles and Practices, 40
- Bilingual teaching certification, 32
- Biographical processes, 30
- Borderland, 54
- Borderland school, narratives of teaching in, 62–63
- Borders, 54
- Canada's Multicultural Act (1988), 141
- Canadian school system, 199
- Canadian teacher, 199
 learning about Japanese schools through lens of,
 183–184
 schooling in one's own culture forms foundation to building knowledge, 183 sense of observations from Canadian teacher perspective, 182–186 understanding of schooling as complex intersection of school and society, culture and curriculum, 183
- Causality, illusion of, 120
- Chilean, 33–34
- Classroom management supported by group-oriented society,
 180–181
- Classrooms, 17–18
- Co-participant, author as, 106
- College Entrance Examination, 149
- Communities, schooling in one's own culture forms foundation to building knowledge about schooling in other, 183
- Comparative education research studies, 192–193
- Conceptual curricular framework, my story as student reconstructed through, 154–157
- Constraints, 57
- Consumer rights, 104
- Conversational education. See
 Problem-posing
- Cosmopolitan citizenship, 102–103
- Cree teachers and students, experiences of, 136–137
- Critical race theory, 135
- Critical service-learning, 81–82
- Cross-boundary children, 55
- Cross-cultural chickens and eggs crossing to new culture, 16–22 crossing to our home culture, 22–23
 data analysis and discussion, 16–24 educational significance, 24–25
 enduring puzzles, 23–24 literature supporting my investigation, 14–15

- methods, 15–16
- Cross-cultural comparative narrative approach, 200–203
- Cross-cultural comparative narrative inquiry, 4–5, 192, 202–203
 - educational significance of, 203
- Cross-cultural contexts, 116
 - learning in, 150–151
 - teaching in, 56–57
- Cross-cultural perspectives in pedagogy
 - Kiyomi's journey through language as cultural identity, 37
 - language and instruction, 37–43
 - nuestras identidades, 31–33
 - reshaping my teaching philosophy, 33–37
 - teaching and cultural identities, 30–31
- Cross-cultural professional development, 14
- Cross-cultural teachers, 18, 23–24
- Cross-cultural teaching, 13–15, 23, 133, 148, 185–186, 192, 194–195
 - contribution of cross-cultural teaching experiences in contributing to teacher knowledge development, 185–186
 - culture shaped my participants, 150–151
 - data from different perspectives, 152–154
 - dialectical shift from my story to my participants' stories, 157–159
 - experiences, 193
 - filling gap between cultural expectations through curricular concepts, 158–159
 - finding crossroad through our stories, 151–152
 - milieus, 149–150
 - my story as student reconstructed through conceptual curricular framework, 154–157
 - reflecting on experience, 164–165
 - seeking comfort and sense of belonging, 152–153
 - seeking safety in silence, 153–154
 - significance of work, 165
 - students' experiences, 154
 - subject matters, 163–164
 - teachers' experiences, 159–163
- Cultural capital in South Korea, english as, 101–102
- Cultural expectations through curricular concepts, filling gap between, 158–159
- Cultural experiences, 30
- Cultural identity, 30–31
 - of FCK, 102
 - Kiyomi's journey through language as, 37
 - loss of local language, 103
 - multiculturality and cosmopolitan citizenship, 102–103
- Cultural revitalization and reclamation, 136
- Cultural uniformity at Kyoto elementary school, 177
- Culturally responsive teacher, 68–70
- Culture
 - schooling as complex intersection of, 183
 - shaped my participants, 150–151
 - shock, 16
 - “Culture bump” concept, 86
- Curricular concepts, filling gap between cultural expectations through, 158–159
- Curriculum, 77, 148, 176–177
 - commonplaces concept, 148
 - decision-making, 148
 - schooling as complex intersection of, 183
- Curriculum design

- culture shaped my participants, 150–151
- dialectical shift from my story to my participants' stories, 157–159
- filling gap between cultural expectations through curricular concepts, 158–159
- finding crossroad through our stories, 151–152
- looking at data from different perspectives, 152–154
- milieus, 149–150
- my story as student reconstructed through conceptual curricular framework, 154–157
- reflecting on experience, 164–165
- seeking comfort and sense of belonging, 152–153
- seeking safety in silence, 153–154
- significance of work, 165
- students' experiences, 154
- subject matters, 163–164
- teachers' experiences, 159–163
- Data
 - autobiographical narratives as, 60
 - collection period, 15–16
- Decolonization education, 135–136
- Deficit, difference as, 63–66
- Department of Educational Foundations, 130
- Dialectical shift, 157–159
- Dialogic theory, 7–8, 83
- Dialogism, 91
- Discourse, 91, 158
- Discovery, 121
- Dominant ethnic group, 36
- Early Childhood Education (ECE), 32
- Early Study Abroad movement (ESA movement), 101–104, 122
- Education, 105
- Educational contexts, 136, 140
- Educational experiences and opportunities, equitable access to, 177–179
- Educational significance of cross-cultural comparative narrative inquiry, 203
- Educational Studies, 31–32
- Educator, 33–37
- Elementary curriculum, holistic approach to, 182
- Elite bilingualism, 104
- Emotional discomfort, 58
- English, 55, 63–64, 155
- English as a Foreign Language (EFL), 65, 82, 85
- “English as a language of inclusion” policy, 111, 114, 118, 124
- English as a Second Language (ESL), 69–70, 108
- English as a Second/Foreign Language (ESL/EFL), 82
- English as cultural capital in South Korea, 101–102
- English for Specific Purposes (ESP), 148–149, 161–162
- English language education, 63–64 in Korea, 101
- English Language Teaching (ELT), 88
- English-speaking countries, 108
- English-speaking international school context, 115
- Ethnic dominant group, 33–34
- Experiences, 105
 - complexities of, 194–199
 - grounded in, 200–203
 - intersecting layers of, 149–150
- Experiential learning course, 81
- External virtual mentors, 71
- Field texts to research texts, moving from, 60–61
- Foreign educational institute, 107
- Fourth Culture Kids (FCK), 102
 - cultural identity of, 102

- Freire's approach, 159
- Genkan, 168
 - classroom management supported
 - by group-oriented society, 180–181
 - data presentation and analysis, 174–182
 - educational significance, 185–186
 - existing literature examining
 - Japanese classroom life, 168–169
 - holistic approach to elementary curriculum, 182
 - Japanese teachers organize
 - students to manage one another, 181–182
 - Kyoto elementary school context, 171–172
 - learning about Japanese schools
 - through lens of Canadian teacher, 183–184
 - learning about teaching at Kyoto Elementary School, 172–174
 - methodology, 171–174
 - outsider to insider perspective, 184–185
 - purposes and objectives, 170
 - schooling as training in group
 - behavior, 174–175
 - sense of observations from
 - Canadian teacher perspective, 182–186
 - theoretical framework, 170–171
 - uniformity in resources, and access
 - to resources, 175–177
- Geographical landscapes, identity
 - shifting in, 149–150
- Global community, 5
- Government survey, 54
- Grappling with discomfort of being
 - different, 61–62
- Greek community, 197–198
- Group-oriented society, classroom
 - management supported by, 180–181
- Holistic approach to elementary curriculum, 182
- Home culture, crossing to our, 22–23
- Honeymoon stage, 16
- Ideological clarity, 76–77
- Immigration process, 28
- In-service teachers, 25
- Indigenous and aboriginal
 - perspectives, 137–139
- Indigenous cultures, 133
- Indigenous education, 135
- Indigenous knowledge, 140
- Indigenous mathematics education, 134
- Indigenous scholars, 139
- Indigenous student communities, 193
- Inequality, 104
- Institutions, 44
- Instructional content, uniformity in, 174–175
- Intercultural competence, 14–15, 22–23
- International Baccalaureate (IB), 107
- International education, 104
- International schools, 104
 - consumer rights or inequality, 104
 - cultural identity of FCK, 102
 - education in Korea, 104
 - emergence of new dimension, 102
 - international schools in Korea, 103–105
 - knowledge gap, 104–105
 - in Korea, 103, 105, 115–116, 124–125
- Margaret and international schools
 - in Korea, 114–116
- opening doors for Korean
 - nationals, 103–104
 - settings, 104–105
 - students and complexities, 102–103

- International students, 28–29,
150–151, 153–154
culture, 28–29
immigration experience, 28–29
- Interview data, reinterpretation of teachers' needs in, 161–163
- Investigation process, 164–165
- Inward, 121–122
- Iterative process, 60–61
- Japan, 19
- Japan Exchange and Teaching
Programme (JET), 15
- Japanese art supplies, 168
- Japanese classroom life, existing literature examining,
168–169
- Japanese education system, 174
- Japanese elementary teachers, 199
- Japanese schools
through lens of Canadian teacher, 183–184
from perspective of foreigner, glimpse into life in, 171–174
practices, 174–182
- Japanese teachers, 175–176
students, 181–182
- Jerri's post on white privilege, 84
- Joan's construction of difference,
66–67
- Joan's story, 62–63
- Knowledge gap, 104–105
- Korea
home, 111
international schools in, 103, 105,
115–116, 124–125
Margaret and international schools in, 114–116
- Korean apartheid, 104
- Korean education system, 101–102
- Korean identities, 113–114, 123–124
- Korean Ministry of Education, 103, 107
- Korean nationals, opening doors for,
103–104
- Korean Scholastic Credential
Recognition (KSCR), 107
- Korean students at Reyes Seward, 113–114
- Koreanness, 114
- Koreans, 100
- Kyoto Elementary School, 173, 181 context, 171–172
learning about teaching at,
172–174
- Language, 158
of connection, 118
as cultural, Kiyomi's journey through identity, 37 and instruction, 37–43
loss, 39
- Learning, 39, 202–203
analysis, 60–61
autobiographical narrative, 61–62 autobiographical narratives as data, 60
confronting difference, 56–57
contextual background, 54–56 in cross-cultural context, 150–151
culturally responsive teacher, 68–70
data, 59–60
difference as deficit, 63–66
Japanese school practices, 174–182
Japanese schools through lens of
Canadian teacher, 183–184
Joan's construction of difference,
66–67
Joan's experiences, 59–60
methodology, 59
narratives of teaching in borderland school, 62–63
process, 155, 158–160, 163, 168 reframing difference with virtual mentors, 67–68
research puzzle, 58–59 schooling as way of learning to member of group, 179–180
social justice, 91

- teaching at Kyoto Elementary School, 172–174
- Linguistic identity, rethinking, 87–89
- Linguistic ideologies, 37
- Local Korean teachers as fourth constituency, 104–105
- Local language, loss of, 103
- Mainland Chinese students, 54–55, 65
- Margaret, 107
and “English as a language of inclusion” policy, 111, 114, 124
- English as cultural capital in South Korea, 101–102
- events, 121–122
- experience and education, 105
- growing up overseas, 108
- and identity as Korean, 110–111
- insider access, 119–120
- international school students and complexities, 102–103
- and international schools in Korea, 114–116, 124–125
- inward, 121–122
- Korean, 118
- and Korean identity, 110–111
- Korean identity, 123–124
- Korean students at Reyes Seward and Korean identities, 113–114
- methodology, 106–107
- narrative as both phenomenon and method, 105
- outward, 123–125
- presenting and analyzing Margaret’s experiences, 107–118
- research puzzles, 100–101
- restorying, 108–109
- review of existing literature, 101–105
- risks of subjectivity, 120–121
- school, 107
- and sense of belonging, 108–109
- sense of belonging, 123
- speaking English to Koreans, 117–118
- Stop Korean, speak English, 116–117
- storying, 110
- storying and restorying, 105
- Sue with, 116–118
- theoretical perspectives, 105
- three areas of possible discovery, 121
- three-dimensional narrative inquiry space as metaphorical space, 105
- Marginalisation, 61–62
- Masters of Arts in Teachers of English to Speakers of Other Languages (MA TESOL), 81 course materials, 80
program, 84–86
- Mathematics, 133
- Medical international programs, 150–151
- Memory reconstruction, 131
- Mentoring for Social Justice and Inclusion*, 76, 79–80, 82
- Mestizos, 33–34, 36
- Metaphorical landscapes, identity shifting in, 149–150
- Metaphorical space,
three-dimensional narrative inquiry space as, 105
- Milieus, 149–150
culture shaped me, 149–150
- Multiculturalism, 137–139
- Multiculturality, 102–103
- Narrative as both phenomenon and method, 105
- Narrative inquiry, 10, 43, 59–60, 78, 80–81, 131, 200 approach, 201
autobiographical approach, 106
Margaret’s School, 107 into Margaret’s stories of experience, 106–107

- presenting and analyzing
 - Margaret's experiences, 107–118
 - research, 202
- Narrative puzzles, 24–25
- Narrative retelling, 91–92
- Narrative threads, 131
- Narratives indigenizing school
 - mathematics
 - experiences of Cree teachers and students, 136–137
 - indigenous and aboriginal perspectives, and multiculturalism, 137–139
 - inquiring into my work, 132–136
 - inquiry, 130–132
- Narratives of teaching in borderland school, 62–63
- National curriculum, 175–176
- Native English teacher (NET), 66
- New York, 79
- Non-Koreans, 100
- Nuestras Identidades, 31–33

- Olympic Games (1988), 101
- One country, two systems', 54
- One-to-one relationship, 82–83
- Outreach Coordinator for the
 - Department of Mathematics and Statistics, 136

- Pakistani students, 152–154
- Participants' stories, dialectical shift
 - from my story to my, 157–159
- Pedagogy, 77
- Physical fatigue, 54–55
- Physiology, 151
- Political clarity, 76–77
- Post-secondary institutions, 44
- Practicing teachers, 192
- Practicum schools, 63–64, 68–69
- Pre-college Study Abroad (PSA), 101–102
- Pre-service teachers, 192

- Privilege, marker of, 103
- Problem-posing, 159
- Puzzles, enduring, 23–24

- Quality education, 104

- Race, 134
 - reflecting on, 83–91
- Racism, 61–62
- "Reforms and Open" policy, 149
- Research, 54
- Research puzzles, 58–59, 100–101
- Research texts, field texts to, 60–61
- Resources, uniformity in resources, and access to, 175–177
- Restorying, 105, 108–111
- Reyes Seward international school
 - context, 107

- Safety in silence, 153–154
- School
 - buildings and resources, 175
 - classrooms, 181
 - schooling as complex intersection of, 183
 - systems, 193, 203
 - uniformity in school practices, 174–175
- Schooling
 - as complex intersection of school and society, culture and curriculum, 183
 - in own culture forms foundation to building knowledge about schooling in other communities, 183
 - as training in group behavior, 174–175
 - as way of learning to be member of group, 179–180
- Schwab's theory of commonplaces, 148
- Scientific knowledge, 155
- Secret confessions, series of, 116–118
- Sense of belonging, 123, 152
- Sense of safety, 152

- Service-learning course, 7–8, 76, 79–82, 91–92
- Silence. seeking safety in, 153–154
- Snow Mountain University, 151
- Social constructions, 134
- Social justice, 7–8, 31–32, 36, 44, 55, 76, 196–197
- dialogues of, 83
 - education, 77–78, 92
 - issues, 134–135
 - movement, 135–136
 - pedagogies, 76–77
 - teacher education, 91–92
- Socialization, 30
- Society, schooling as complex intersection of, 183
- Sociocultural distance, 64–65
- Socratic approach, 155–156
- Socratic method of questioning, 158
- South Korea, English as cultural capital in, 101–102
- Special educational needs (SEN), 67
- Stories of experience, 29, 171
- Storying, 105, 108, 110
- Student mobility, 28
- Student teachers, 55–56, 63–64, 80–81
- difference, 58–59
- Students, 158
- experiences, 154
 - identities, 86–87
 - reconstructed through conceptual curricular framework, 154–157
- Subject matters, 20–21, 163–164
- Subjectivity
- generalizing narratives into descriptions, 120–121
 - illusion of causality, 120
 - risks of, 120–121
- Teacher education, 4–5, 170, 184, 192
- contextualizing social justice education, 77–78
 - courses, 56
 - dialogues of youth mentoring and social justice, 83
- Jerry, 83–91
- Karen, 87–89
- narrative inquiry, 78–81
- programs, 13, 31–32, 57
- social justice teacher education on move, 91–92
- Winnie, 89–91
- youth mentoring service learning course, 81–83
- Teacher educators, 76–78, 81
- Teacher experiences, 193
- Teacher identity, 197
- Teacher knowledge, 31, 183, 197, 202
- complexities of, 200–201
 - complexities of experiences, 194–199
 - contribution of cross-cultural teaching experiences in contributing to, 185–186
 - cross-cultural comparative narrative inquiry, 202–203
 - cross-cultural teaching experiences, 193
 - educational significance of cross-cultural comparative narrative inquiry, 203
 - and experience, 195–196
 - grounded in experience, 200–203
 - methodology reveals complexities and recognizes multiple perspectives, 201
 - power of autobiographical perspective, 202
 - role of commonplaces in examining cross-cultural teaching, 199–200
- Teachers, 30, 193, 195–196
- experiences, 159–163
 - reinterpretation of teachers' needs represented in interview data, 161–163
 - story as a teacher, 160–161
- Teaching, 4–5, 13, 17–18, 21, 70–71
- in cross-cultural contexts, 56–57
 - identities, 30–31

- narratives of teaching in
 - borderland school, 62–63
 - philosophy, 33–37
- Teaching English as a Foreign language (TEFL), 55
- Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL), 55, 77–78, 85–86
- Third-Culture Kids (TCK), 102
- Three-dimensional narrative inquiry
 - space as metaphorical space, 105
- Transitional process, 28–29
- Translanguaging, 38–39
 - practices, 39
- Uniformity
 - cultural uniformity at Kyoto elementary school, 177
 - equitable access to educational experiences and opportunities, 177–179
 - national curriculum, 175–176
 - in resources, and access to resources, 175–177
 - school buildings and resources, 175
 - in school practices and instructional content, 174–175
- United Kingdom, 61
- United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), 28
- United States, 31–32
- University of Texas-Austin (UT-Austin), 32
- Virtual mentoring space, 59–60
- Virtual mentors, 69–70
 - reframing difference with, 67–68
- Western capital, 102
- Western education, 101–102
- Western faculty, 102–103
- White privilege, 84–86
 - Jerri's post on, 84
 - reflecting on, 83–91
- Writing process, 163
- Youth mentoring, 7–8, 82–83
 - dialogues of, 83
 - interrogating self-other relations in, 89–91
 - service learning course, 78, 81–83, 87, 91