

Retraction Notice

The Editorial team of Research on Professional Responsibility and Ethics in Accounting, Volume 24 wish to retract the published chapter McKenna Golden, Tyler Custis, Erin Cornelsen (2021), “The Pursuit of Steady Growth: An Instructional Case Study of Executive Fraud”, Research on Professional Responsibility and Ethics in Accounting, Volume 24 Chapter No. 9, <https://doi.org/10.1108/S1574-076520210000024009>. Publicly available information was used at the time of writing the account of Brixmor. Since publication the US Government have announced a voluntary dismissal of all charges in the case of SEC v Carroll et al and the decision has been made to withdraw the article by the Editorial Team.

Notice of Withdrawal

The Editorial team of Research on Professional Responsibility and Ethics in Accounting wish to inform readers that the published article McKenna Golden, Tyler Custis, Erin Cornelsen (2021), “The Pursuit of Steady Growth: An Instructional Case Study of Executive Fraud”, Research on Professional Responsibility and Ethics in Accounting, Volume 24 Chapter No. 9, <https://doi.org/10.1108/S1574-076520210000024009> has been permanently withdrawn following a full investigation into the misconduct outlined in the retraction notice above. The article was removed on 18 August 2022].