ABOUT THE EDITORS

John D. Bitzan is Professor of Management at North Dakota State University. Over a 25 year period, he has performed research related to a variety of transportation issues, including costs, energy, intermodal competition, investment, industry structure, pricing, profitability, and regulation. Moreover, his research has examined a variety of modes, including air, motor, public transit, rail, and water carriers. He has performed research for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (as an independent reviewer), the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and the U.S. Federal Railroad Administration. He is Associate Editor of Advances in Airline Economics and of the Journal of the Transportation Research Forum.

James H. Peoples is Professor of Economics at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. His current research interests include analysis of production efficiency for different modes of freight transportation. He has served as president of the National Economic Association and president of the Transportation and Public Utilities Group. He currently serves as series editor of Advances in Airline Economics. Other editorial responsibilities include serving as editorial board member of Transport Policy, as well as editorial board member of Open Economics. He previously served as associate editor of the Review of Black Political Economy.
